Another big thank you to all the children and their supportive parents/carers for their continued efforts at home. We know that it's a strange time and appreciate all the effort you are making to continue to learn and progress.

Stay safe and God bless.

Continued: Project Work - History

Over the next couple of weeks we thought it would be fun to start a project. This is based on any decade you choose. Eg: 80's, 90's etc.

You can choose how you present this project (eg: It could be in a folder or a PowerPoint presentation.)

Here are some key areas you need to focus on:

- Key events
- Inventions
- Music
- Movies
- Fashion
- Sports

Try and make your project as exciting and inventive as you can. You can use writing, photos, drawings, clips. It's up to you!

Wilderness

He had been out in the wilderness for over a month now. Jim Bridger had known some cold times in his life, growing up in the Alaskan wilderness with his family, but he couldn't remember a time when the wind's icy breath had bitten into his skin with such ferocity and spite.

His father had taught Jim all he knew about survival in the harsh climes of the north, and it was into this well of knowledge that he must now draw and drink deeply.

Jim's heart fluttered with excitement as the embers within the bundle of twigs he held protectively in his cupped hands responded to his pleading breath, dancing their orange waltz of hope in front of him...

Planning/Questions:

- What might the 'cold times' be that Jim experienced when he was growing up?
- What does it mean by saying that the wind had 'bitten' into his skin?
- When Jim drinks from this 'well' what is he actually doing?
- Why is his breath 'pleading'? What does this mean?
- What other survival techniques do you think Jim relies upon in the wilderness?

Something Extra?

Jim is a bit like an old fashioned version of Bear Grylls! Can you out together a Bear Grylls style survival guide?
